

CLONKEEN COLLEGE PRESS

28th January 2016

Dear Parents/Guardians,

As part of the Transition Year Creative Writing module, the TY students have set up Clonkeen College Press. The Press is publishing a collection of students' short stories in March 2016. The book, entitled THE ANTHOLOGY 2016, features articles from the students taking the Creative Writing module as well as pieces submitted from other students across the school. This year's edition also features writing from a past pupil and we hope to include some artwork by Clonkeen's students.

This is the fifth year of this project and the publication of THE ANTHOLOGY 2016 is an opportunity to showcase the creative work of students from Clonkeen College. It is intended to foster an interest in creative writing. It is an outlet for students who enjoy writing, it provides the students with practical experience of editing, producing and marketing in the world of books.

In order for the project to be sustainable we need to secure advance sales each year. This allows us to know how many copies to have printed and avoid losing money. THE ANTHOLOGY will cost €5 and will be distributed in early March.

If you would be willing to support this ambitious project and are interested in reading the creative efforts of students from Clonkeen College, we would appreciate if you could commit to buying a copy of THE ANTHOLOGY 2016 before Friday the 12th of February, by filling out the slip below and including your €5.

The Production Team:

Alex Flynn
Cormac Spain
Luke Kenna
Pearse McGrath

Supervising teacher: John Toomey

Clonkeen College Press, Payment Slip for THE ANTHOLOGY 2016

Parent/guardian: _____

Student: _____

Class/Year: _____